

Contribution ID: 70

Type: Poster

Studies on porting the Bifrost legacy code to GPUs

With the imminent exascale era, many legacy codes face a variety of challenges to become portable to GPU machines, like LUMI. We would like to give an overview on the status of Bifrost physics capabilities supported on GPUs and possible applications. We will share our experiences so far in exploring portability with directives approaches while using different compilers and architectures.

Primary author: BARRIOS SAZO, Maria (Institute of Theoretical Astrophysics, University of Oslo)

Co-author: SZYDLARSKI, Mikolaj (ITA, RoCS)

Presenter: BARRIOS SAZO, Maria (Institute of Theoretical Astrophysics, University of Oslo)

Session Classification: Posters

Track Classification: Current and Future Capabilities